

for PCIs raises a concern. However, the AAP also expressed concern that a blanket application of Government ethics provisions to contractor employees might result in over-regulation with its attendant costs to industry, particularly small businesses.

6. Two recent FAR cases, 2006–007 and 2007–006, have expanded, or propose to expand, general business ethics coverage and requirements in the FAR with respect to contractor entities. The former case was published as a final rule at 72 FR 65873, November 23, 2007, with an effective date of December 24, 2007. It requires employers to post Inspector General (IG) Hotline posters in their places of business, to have a written code of business ethics, and, with the exception of small businesses, to have a formal business ethics training program and internal control system. The latter case was published as a proposed rule at 72 FR 64019, November 14, 2007. The comment period closed on January 14, 2008. The Councils are now reviewing the comments received. FAR Case 2007–006 proposes more mandatory requirements for the business ethics programs. For example, contractors that do not timely report violations of law in connection with a Government contract or subcontract may be subject to suspension or debarment. Neither of these FAR cases specifically addressed personal conflicts of interest for contractor employees working in the Federal workplace.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

A. Background

1. The Councils are considering the need for standard OCI clauses, or a set of standard OCI clauses, if appropriate, for inclusion in solicitations and contracts. The Councils are publishing a related advance notice of proposed rulemaking on the subject of Service Contractor Employee Personal Conflicts of Interest.

2. Organizational and Consultant Conflicts of Interest are addressed in Subpart 9.5, as well as in some agencies' supplements.

3. With the recent increase in the use of contractor employees to perform functions previously performed by Government employees (blended workforce) and the increased consolidation in many sectors of the contractor community, the Councils are seeking to determine if the FAR's current guidance on OCIs adequately addresses the current needs of the acquisition community or whether providing standard provisions and/or clauses, or a set of such standard provisions and clauses, might be beneficial. A review of agency-specific guidance on OCI's may reveal useful language, tools, and/or training that might be beneficial if expanded Governmentwide. The Councils also believe a review of current available training to contracting officers on the identification and mitigation of OCIs is necessary and should be included, with a gap analysis and recommendations.

4. The Acquisition Advisory Panel (AAP) was chartered by the Congress at Section 1423 of the Services Acquisition Reform Act (SARA). Relevant portions of the final report of the AAP are located on the Web at <http://acquisition.gov/comp/aap/documents/Chapter6.pdf>. The Acquisition Advisory Panel (AAP) found that "the use of contractor employees to perform functions previously performed by Government employees combined with consolidation in many sectors of the contractor community has increased the potential for organizational conflicts of interest" (AAP Final Report, Chapter 6, Finding 6, page 417). The nature of the blended or multisector workforce could potentially distort previously clear distinctions between Government employees and private-sector employees, who often are working side-by-side, and may add complexity to the business ethics landscape for which the acquisition community needs updated guidance.

5. Two recent FAR cases, 2006–007 and 2007–006, have expanded, or proposed to expand, general business ethics coverage and requirements in the FAR with respect to contractor entities. The former case was published as a final rule at 72 FR 65873, November 23, 2007, with an effective date of December 24, 2007. It requires employers to post Inspector General (IG) Hotline posters in their places of business, to have a written code of business ethics, and, with the exception of small businesses, to have a formal business ethics training program and internal control system. The latter case was published as a proposed rule at 72 FR 64019, November 14, 2007, whose comment period closed on January 14, 2008. The Councils are now reviewing the comments received. FAR Case 2007–006 proposes additional mandatory requirements for the business ethics programs. For example, contractors that do not timely report violations of law in connection with a Government contract or subcontract may be subject to suspension or debarment.

B. Solicitation of Public Comment

The Councils are seeking comments on whether additional coverage in this area is needed, the suitability of expanding Governmentwide one or a combination of the agencies' approaches, and whether expanded coverage would enhance the integrity of the Government's decision-making processes.

ACTION: Reopening of comment period.

SUMMARY: This document reopens the comment period on a supplemental notice of proposed rulemaking (SNPRM) to amend Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard (FMVSS) No. 213, "Child Restraint Systems." We have granted the request to extend the comment period and are reopening the comment period for 45 days.

DATES: Comments must be received by May 12, 2008.
